Household Hazardous Waste

What is Household Hazardous Waste (HHW)?

HHW can be found in many locations throughout your home:

In the Garage: paint, motor oil, fertilizer, antifreeze, pesticides, and pool chemicals.
In the House: cleaning chemicals, pet supplies (flea/tick sprays, collars or shampoos), insect sprays and baits, and mercury thermometers.

In the Bathroom: tub and tile cleaners, hydrogen peroxide, isopropyl alcohol, nail polish and remover

The average household generates 15 lbs. of HHW annually. To identify HHW look for these warning words on products: toxic, warning, poison, flammable, corrosive, combustible, danger, irritant, and caution. (taken from Get the Power Over Household Chemical by the Houston-Galveston Area Council)

What are your options for disposing of HHW safely?

If HHW is disposed of improperly it can contaminate the area where it was disposed, such as, if you dump it out on the ground in your yard and even the landfill. Ultimately the chemicals can contaminate the groundwater and surface water which leads to higher cost to treat and clean the water but in most cases the damage done to the ecosystem can take years and sometimes decades to heal.

Residents currently have three options available to dispose of HHW properly.

Option 1: West U's HHW Voucher Program – The City offers a voucher for West U residents to dispose of residential HHW at the City of Houston facilities. The vouchers are issued on a first come first serve basis. The City pays a fee of $75 for each voucher and there is a limit of 100 pounds per visit. The cost of the voucher is paid from the monthly solid waste fees collected by the City.
